You're amazing. Thanks so much.

Can I please get a quote for bringing in two non-pass holders from 11-12 on Saturday?

Thanks so much

Thanks Moira. Yes, once you notify the police, they take over logistics, and because it's not held on the Parliamentary precinct, no approvals needed by parliamentary staff.

Happy to chat later about bringing guests in – my remit is the PH building, not the annexe. Chat next week!

Cheers,

Hi Sally, no it's fine you can cancel my event booking. I forgot to say we'd liaised with police. I was wondering why none of us had been in contact with parliament- so this is even easier!

Thanks so much!!

Although I'm going to get back to you on Monday about the booking and staff cost for bringing in one guest on that Saturday lol.

Thanks so much for everything you do to help me!

Hi Moira,

Thanks for this. I've managed to speak to a few people. The Serjeant-at-Arms office can see your entry but can't see approval at their end. They said a second request has just come through from you this afternoon. I've also spoken to Security who tell me that there is a protest booked in the system under Let Women Speak Tour, it's on the same day for 500+ people. When protests are booked for our steps, Victoria Police take over security. Is this the same organisation that you're talking about? If so, there are two options:

1. Cancel your booking as the Let Women Speak Tour is already in the system. Victoria Police manage it as it is considered a protest. It takes place on the bottom six steps (not the parliamentary precinct).
2. If you wish to keep your booking, then it becomes an event and I'll need to take it to the Presiding Officers for approval.

We can chat more tomorrow morning, but sorry I have to duck out now.

Kind regards,

Sally West | Usher of the Black Rod | Legislative Council | Parliament of Victoria | [REDACTED] | parliament.vic.gov.au

Hi Sally, thanks so much. Just let me know if I should ever go straight to another person. I know I ask a lot of questions!

Hi Moira,

I'm looping John Fothergill into this discussion – John is the Manager of Buildings and Grounds here at Parliament. John will make a time with you to look at this, and also your previous query regarding the noisy air conditioning.

Please come back to me if you need my help with anything.

Kind regards,

Hi Sally, a large rectangle light at the back of my office goes on and off. Can I keep it on permanently?

Thanks!
