Gender and Family Violence Toolkit

A set of supporting materials for each document is available on the website

The Human Rights Toolkit is designed to support courts to develop a strategy and action plan for their courts to institutionalise and foster human rights. It aims to increase the ability of judicial and court officers to apply human rights in their daily work and practice to improve the quality of justice provided by courts. The Human Rights Toolkit will provide partner courts with an over-arching perspective on how human rights principles link together across multiple aspects of courts' work.

The Gender and Family Violence Toolkit aims to improve the accessibility and responsiveness of courts to victims of gender and family violence. The toolkit provides practical approaches to assist partner courts in assessing how accessible and responsive their court services are to victims of violence. It provides practical tools to assess how accessible and responsive court services are and strategies on how to: improve efforts and track progress through implementing action plans; promote community awareness; and the need for accountability of perpetrators.

Where can the toolkits be found?

A total of 16 toolkits are available and can be found on the PJSI website. PJSI toolkits are intended to provide support to partner courts to implement their development activities at a local level, by providing information and practical guidance on key justice reform areas. By developing and making available these resources, PJSI aims to build local capacity to enable partner courts to address local needs.

To download the toolkits please click on the following link and you will be taken to the PJSI website. Simply click on the link for the toolkit and the type of file you prefer.
