» Minister accused of misleading parliament

» The Project ignored proof Higgins got help

James Morrow

Finance Minister Katy Gallagher has been sensationally accused of misleading parliament about her knowledge of a 2021 interview on TV show The Project, during which former Liberal staffer Brittany

Higgins made accusations that she had been raped in Parliament House.

It comes as The Daily Telegraph can reveal a former senior government official said Ms Higgins was fully supported after her claims by a staffer of then-minister Linda Reynolds, but that staffer was "slaughtered" by Channel 10 producers when "none" of that information was aired. Last night, former deputy PM Barnaby Joyce said the scandal could "sink the government".
