Gatsby de Bottlebrush..
 It was lovely having you at my birthday celebrations. Hope filming is going well this week. I'm heading to the Children of the sun tonight. Hopefully see you there. I like our collisions it gives a glee to the usual foyer glum.

Müllerin (yes a complicated and obtuse jeu de mots, of course) - basically it's a spectacular near-homophone praising you as a delicious mysterious daughter of the Miller! - apologies for missing your opening last night (I sent a scrappy hasty message through Mrs Nevin) .... but I was thinking of you (as I do more than is socially appropriate 😊) -how is your Big Wheel turning? ... how do months fly so quickly by?
Fatigued by Lear (many levels) I flew to the UK, underprepped but champing, to play

Giacometti - and have just seen a Vimeo finecut which has allayed my worst fears of not honouring the man's curious idiosyncrasies - many chunky sessions of meticulous ADR happen next week.

I feel certain you will be hand in glove with Miller's world. He's a classicist that still provides the toughest and most interesting challenges for a contemporary experience .... I hope you're
