Hi Jonathan,

We have spoken to the complainant's agent who says their client does not want any part in this story.

As I said before, the complainant's wellbeing is of our utmost concert. I reiterate that the complainant is extremely fragile and highly distressed by the situation and the subsequent media attention.

As I said on the phone, it is her story to tell and she should have the right to tell it at a time of her choosing - and on her own terms.

Thanks,

Katherine
