Experience

My experience is broad and diverse. As a barrister I have appeared in a range of Courts relating to law in the following areas: statutory interpretation; heritage; environmental and planning approvals and enforcement; development, infrastructure and major projects; compulsory acquisition of land; mining and resources; native title; confiscation of proceeds of crime; administrative law/judicial review; quasi criminal law as it relates to enforcement processes and confiscation proceedings; and general commercial litigation. Many matters have resulted in published reasons.

I appeared in the Queensland Flood Commission of Inquiry 2011 (for Ipswich City Council) and the Grantham Flood Commission of Inquiry 2015 (for Queensland Rail).

I have advised or acted in proceedings for and against the Commonwealth and State of Queensland, Ministers and related entities, Government Owned Corporations, various local governments, indigenous representative bodies, companies and private individuals (including self-represented persons).

I provide mediation services as part of my current practice. I have participated in without prejudice conferences, mediations and compulsory court supervised conferences in matters falling within the jurisdiction of the Federal Court, the Supreme Court, the Planning and Environment Court and the land Court.

I have an advisory position in relation to heritage matters at the local government level and a statutory decision making position for State heritage places through the Queensland Heritage Council.
