Judges, Magistrates and Registrars from 14 Pacific Island Countries are attending a three day Regional Judicial Leadership Workshop in Nuku'alofa.

The workshop is part of a five year Pacific Judicial Strengthening Initiative funded by the Government of New Zealand and implemented by the Federal Court of Australia. The programme aims to build fairer societies through accessible, just, efficient and responsive court services

In her opening remarks, New Zealand High Commissioner Sarah Walsh said 'strong judicial systems across the Pacific contribute to more secure, resilient, equitable and prosperous places for our people'
