Sorry babe I just got your message. I do think about you every waking minute, your so amazing to me! I feel that it's the calm before the storm as well, we are going fine but because Em is trying so hard I feel like shit and really nervous about hurting her. I think I just need to see you because when I'm here alone I just feel bad about this side of it.

Yes, I'm starting to feel that from you. I hope I'm not going to end up out of sight, out of mind. Is there a way we can see each other before we both go overseas?

Your never out of my mind and I keep thinking about meeting your family and you meeting my girls... what we could do together and where we could go in life. To answer your question yes I have, I know she feels bad for ignoring me and admitted to just giving up on that side of things. Please don't think I will forget about you because your all I think about...
